PACIFIC COAST DISPATCHES.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov 6. It has been raining lightly nearly all day, with indications favorable for more wet weather. A warm wind has been blowing very slight from the southwest.

The funeral of the late A. P. Crittenden to-morrow, will be attended by the bar and a great number of the friends of the family. Mrs. Fair has quieted down entirely, manifesting no serious symptoms of insanity now. It is alleged that her first husband was Lieut. Greyson of the navy, who like her second husband, Fair, committed suicide.

The brig Hallie Jackson arrived this evening from Emma harbor, Kamschatka, with a cargo of bone and ivory.

This evening Jim McLaughlin went into Billy Dryer's crib, on Kearney street, approached a man who was sitting in a chair and knocked him down on the floor. The party assaulted drew a pistol, as he lay on the floor, and shot McLaughlin across the abdomen, the wound not being of a fatal character. He then got up, hit him over the head with the pistol, inflicting a severe scalp wound, and made his escape.

The second robbery of the train on the Central Pacific Railroad has led to the adoption of measures which will be pretty sure to result in the killing of some of the attacking party. There will be arms ready for use on trains hereafter, and inducements to use them will not be wanting on the part of conductors, messengers and other employees.

The Montana Geisers

WHAT THE YELLOWSTONE EXPLORING EXPEDITION SAW

The Montana Gazette has the annexed interesting article:

About noon August 30th, unexpectedly to every one, they came suddenly to the forks of the Yellowstone. They are in a gorge so deep that at a quarter of a mile distant the stillness of the forest is unbroken by the roar, while the general aspect of the country would lead the ordinary observer to suppose himself not within three miles of the river. Stopping at the falls one day, the party proceeded on the 1st of September to Crater Hills, 300 feet high, entirely thrown up by mineral springs, thence to mud volcano, which throws mud to a hight of 200 feet, one of the most wonderful features of the trip, near which they camped and laid over one day. On September 3d the party forded the river, and camped on the shores of Yellowstone Lake, which is very irregular in shape, but is, perhaps, thirty miles long, with an extremely irregular width in proportion. It was while making their way through the fallen timber and thick woods around the lake that Mr Everts strayed away from the party on the 9th day of September. He had with him his horse, gun and ammunition, and probably fishing tackle. The party went into camp within three miles, fired guns, lighted fires, searched in every direction, and took all possible means to find him. They continued their search in that immediate vicinity and along the lake shore for five days, during which time snow fell to the depth of fifteen inches, commencing the fourth day after he was lost and snowing two days. The party cached provisions at various places and posted up notices in prominent positions, and left Mr Gillette and two Indians to continue the search. September 16th they camped near some hot mineral springs and steam jets on the southwest side of the lake, which were more varied than any visited up to that time. September 17th the party took their final departure from the lake and crossed the divide to the head waters of the Madison, finding that the snow storm had been general. As they were going down the "Fire Hole," the principal branch of the Madison, on September 18th, they found a fine cascade, and about two miles below struck the Fifth Hole Basin. For two miles along both sides of the stream, which has a valley three-quarters of a mile wide, the whole country is covered with geysers, steam jets and hot springs, which numbered, all told, at least 2,000 within the bounds named. Seven of these geysers are unequaled in the known world, and these were decidedly the feature of the trip—the wonder of all wonders. The geysers of Iceland are far excelled, and those of California sink into utterly insignificant proportions beside them. The party named them as follows according to prominence and volume: The "Giant," with a vent seven feet by ten, throws a solid column of water from 80 to 120 feet in height. The "Giantess," which has a crater 20 feet by 30 on top, 50 feet below the surface of which is a vent about 10 by 15; it throws five jets 200 feet high, clear, transparent water of ultra marine color. "Old Father," with a vent seven by three, throws a solid stream from 70 to 100 feet high, almost continuously. The "Bee Hive," with a vent of three by three and a half, throws a solid column of 220 feet high by actual measurement. The "Castle," with an irregular vent of ten feet in diameter, throws a column of 60 feet. The "Grotto" has a 6 foot crevice, and throws a solid column 60 feet high. There may be others equal to these, or excelling them, which were not in action while the party was there—as these are all intermittent—"Old Father" being the most regular and frequent. The water in all is very hot, and the craters, which vary in size and shape, are formed of incrustations deposited by the water. On the 10th of September the party left the Geysers, and about four miles further down the Firehole found four large hot springs, the largest measuring 450 paces in circumference, the water being of the same peculiar clear blue as noted above, and about the same temperature. After passing down two canyons on the Madison, and a variety of beautiful scenery, the party reached a frontier ranch, from which some of them made their way in.

Railroading Extraordinary

In Susquehanna county, Pennsylvania, an extraordinary occurrence in railroading has taken place and is attracting many visitors to the scene. The circumstances are related as these:

A railroad is being built from Harpersville to Carbondale, connecting with the Albany and Susquehanna and the N. Y. & Erie railroads. About 15 miles from Carbondale the line of road crosses a low swampy piece of ground about 80 rods in width, and requiring an embankment of some forty feet to fill up to the grade. It was accordingly filled, the ties and rail laid, and all ready for the cars, when down went the road—embankment and all—level with the swamp. Again it was filled, and the track laid, and the same result followed. Nothing daunted, the Company again filled, and for the third time it went down. The fourth effort was made by driving spiles fifty feet long into the swamp, cribbing with timbers and filling up with earth. About the time it was completed road bed and timbers all disappeared in a night, and the swamp was looking its level best next morning. The Company has probably [illegible] around to the other side to secure the soil as they come through, and in the mean time other men are not building roads across that swamp as much as they were.

This is one of the most remarkable instances of the kind we have ever heard of. Taking a strictly religious view of the matter, it would seem that the Company would be acting very injudiciously in running any passenger trains across there until they get the road built.

The Government has ordered the commander of Fort McHenry, Baltimore, to assist in enforcing the United States election law in Maryland, if required to do so by the United States Marshal.

The Prussians at Bazeilles

DESTRUCTION OF THE VILLAGE—BARBARITIES OF THE PRUSSIANS

[From the Correspondent of the London News.]

BOUILLON, Sept. 30.—This evening I returned to this picturesque town, after a short tour amongst the battle fields round about Sedan. One object in visiting Bazeilles was to make inquiry from the villagers themselves as to their version of the incidents which led to the destruction of that thriving place, and to ascertain, if possible, the numbers of those killed by the Bavarians. In this I have been tolerably successful, and can give you a faithful account of what the peasants and wealthy residents of Bazeilles have to say in their own defense. Unfortunately I could not exhaust the sources of information which are attainable, because only a few, scarcely fifty, have at present returned to the place, and they live in constant terror of the reappearance of those soldiers who inflicted such terrible punishment upon them.

The term village as applied to Bazeilles is calculated to convey a very erroneous impression of the character of the place. It is one of the most flourishing suburbs of Sedan, from which it is distant about two miles. The houses in the principal streets were four stories in height, and were built of large blocks of white stone. All along the roadway from La Moncelle to the entrance of Bazeilles the debris of the battle abounds; knapsacks and helmets by hundreds lie in the ditches, and in the fields are the remains of the Prussian encampments. A few hundred yards from Bazeilles I met some peasants on the roadway who belonged to that village, and I questioned them closely as to their knowledge of the facts which led to the bombardment. I told them that it had been reported in England that some of their number had thrown wounded Bavarian soldiers into houses and then set the buildings on fire. Their answers I took down at the time, and afterward, among the ruins of the houses, every man and woman was subjected to a similar cross-examination. There were originally upward of 500 houses there, the major portion of which were of the kind I have described. For several days preceding the disaster the people remained at their homes, but as the Prussian circle narrowed around them there came rumors of terrible sufferings having been experienced at the hands of the soldiers, in the neighboring villages. This induced a large number to remove bedding and other effects in carts, with the hope of escaping through Givonne and La Chapelle to Belgium. One poor woman told me she succeeded in escaping from Bazeilles on the morning of Thursday, September 1, when the fight took place, but she took nothing with her. From the strength of the houses the French troops and a number of Francs-tireurs, believed they would be able to hold the place successfully against the enemy, and there can be no doubt that a desperate conflict happened in the streets. There was one through which I passed where the houses on both sides had been battered down by mitrailleurs. The Bavarians lost heavily, but it was in a fair fight with the French soldiers, and the massacre of the inhabitants those who survive declare to have been of the most unwarrantable character. In answer to my questions men, women, and priests most indignantly denied that any atrocity had been committed upon wounded Bavarians. They did tell me of one woman whose husband and sons had been killed by the soldiers, who from her own house fired upon the Bavarians, killing two, and as long as one stone remains to mark the site of Bazeilles so long will the story of that woman's heroism excite the admiration and the patriotism of the people of France. Because of her it will hardly be said the village was destroyed. Yet upon her shoulders and those of the Francs-tireurs the Prussians lay the responsibility of what followed. During the fight certain things took place which have not yet been made public. A woman of independent means, named Douchemy, was so foully abused by the soldiers—and that phrase is intended to describe the most serious outrage that can be inflicted upon woman—that she died three days afterward. This fact was attested by the priest who confessed the woman in her dying moments. Her house was subsequently set on fire, and the outer walls only now remain. Many of the villagers, deceived by the proclamations of the Germans, remained, believing that war was not made upon them. When the fight commenced numbers hid themselves in the cellars of their houses. M. Roberts, a wealthy brewer, and his servants were dragged from the cellars of their house and shot. In another house two children named Dehaye, one six months and the other eighteen months old, were pitched from the window of the house into the street by the Bavarians, then thrown back again into the house, which was set on fire, and the children burnt, but their parents escaped. A young man named Remy, 32 years of age, who had been confined to his bed two years with a spinal complaint, was bayonetted and killed as he layed on his couch. In another house a man named Vanchelet, his daughter, his brother in law, and his father in law were fastened in the cellar and burned to death. Their charred remains were subsequently buried by some of their neighbors who had known them. Cotin Chartier, a married man with a family, was wounded by a ball in the shoulder, and made a prisoner. He was tied up naked in the railway station for eight days, and then died from his wound. Henery Aubergiste, landlord of the Golden Lion, was shot on the doorstep of his house. These are the names of some of the sufferers, and I have no doubt that a complete list of those killed may be obtained when the Prussians are gone. But at present, out of a population of nearly two thousand, scarcely fifty remain. While conversing with a few of them at the entrance to the village, trumpets were heard [illegible] followed by a regiment of the very men who destroyed the village, and my poor friends disappeared with considerable agility, nor did they venture from their hiding place until the soldiers had passed out of sight. I ascertained that only ten bodies had been dug out of the ruins of the houses, and they all belonged to the village, and as to the number missing, my informants varied in their statements as to whether they numbered fifty or seventy. To decide this question, amongst others brought to me was an old man named Denis Mozet. He told me that he was one of about forty who were collected out of the house, tried by court-martial and condemned to be shot. His hands were tied, and the morning after their condemnation, when about to start for the scene of execution, an officer ordered his bands to be cut and he was set at liberty, but his companions were executed. He could not tell me why he was sentenced to death or why he was pardoned. As I walked through the streets the houses of the people whose names I have mentioned were pointed out to me. [illegible] their destruction is most complete. Only one house remains standing. Every other one, including a chateau, the Hotel de Ville and the church, is completely destroyed. In scores of instances the walls facing the street has fallen, and in hundreds of others the walls are so shattered that they must be blown up before any attempt can be made to rebuild. In a little garden behind one house where flowers still bloomed ten soldiers lay in one grave, and a few yards off was a grave with one occupant. The men who took me to this place stated that one of the soldiers shot in that garden was set on fire by the explosion and burnt to death before he could be assisted. This fact he alleged had given rise to the story of the villagers throwing the wounded men into the houses. Before the bombardment commenced the soldiers removed about thirty wounded from the Hotel de Ville and a chateau to the Golden Lion. The bombs were rained upon the place, and a few men who had succeeded in hiding until that moment, in attempting to escape, were shot in the street by Bavarians. One house was pointed out where fifty men had been taken prisoners, but the fate of those men I could not ascertain; probably some of them were amongst the forty shot. The sufferings of the people who have thus lost their homes and all they possessed are very severe, and from my own observation I can testify to the immediate need of succoring them. But Bazeilles is not a solitary case; every village through which the soldiers have passed is in want of help, and every article of any value has been carried off. At Sedan I met Gen. Sir Vincent Eyre, who, with Mr. J. Blundell and Mr. Merridew, had made a tour on behalf of the Boulogne Society for the benefit of the sick and wounded, and they entreated me to plead for immediate relief being sent to the poor starving peasants. At Bazeilles a few families have ventured to return to their ruined homes, and I saw some women carrying on cooking operations under the shelter of screens composed of boughs of trees. When I asked where they slept at night I was taken to a cellar and invited to descend. There I found a quantity of straw laid on the floor and covered with coarse sacks. Fourteen men and women slept there. In the corner was a respectably dressed woman, desperately ill and unconscious. She was attended by her daughter, a girl of 16, whose face was swollen with cold, and bandaged. Pointing to her mother she said, "We have lost our pretty house and all we possessed, and I am afraid mother will die." Twenty-six families from this village are encamped under boughs of trees in the rear of the Octroi Guard House, on the Belgian frontier, and at night they slept in two lofts of the only public house which is there. I looked into those lofts, and was particularly impressed with their cleanly appearance. They had brought bedding with them, which was scrupulously clean, and a little cot in which lay a plump baby was decorated with white curtains. So impressed was General Eyre with the necessity of providing immediate relief for the poor peasants that he gave a donation of one thousand francs to a fund formed for the purpose at Sedan. This fund is under the charge of Madame la Comtesse de Montagnac, and S. Dumaine, Archipetre de Sedan, by whom subscriptions and goods would be gratefully received. But it will be necessary to communicate with them through some English organization, as letters would not be delivered.

Three Men Killed by a Grizzly

[From the Sacramento Reporter.]

On the 18th instant, says the San Jose Independent, three men, whose names are unknown, but who had been keeping a dairy on the San Benito ranch, came to their death in a most horrible manner. On Tuesday one of their cows strayed away and was lost. On the next morning before breakfast, two of them started out to take a look for the missing animal. After traveling up the ravine for some distance they discovered the cow lying among the brush.

Thinking she was asleep they went up to start her home, but it appears the cow had been killed by a grizzly, who was at this time lying at her side. As the men approached the bear leaped upon the foremost one, and throwing him to the ground, tore out his entrails, and seizing the second, caught his head in his mouth and bit it entirely off, mangling it fearfully. The bear then resumed his position by the body of the dead cow. The man who was first attacked did not die immediately, but had strength enough left to drag himself a short distance from the spot.

In the mean time the man left at the camp having prepared breakfast, went out to call his companions. Finding their trail he followed it until he saw the cow lying in the bushes, and thinking he would drive her home he approached the spot, when the bear springing upon him instantly killed him, mangling him in the most horrible manner. The surviving victim, who was lying in the brush a short distance from the scene, witnessed his approach and death, but was so terribly wounded he was unable to give any warning. The bodies were found a short time afterward and conveyed to the camp, where the survivor died during the ensuing night, after relating the affair as we have stated above. The bear is the same one which has been in that vicinity for the last ten years, it being known from its peculiar track, having lost three of its toes from one of its feet.

TIME'S REVENGES.—It is reported that the climate of Wilhelmshohe is too harsh for Napoleon, and that his removal to the island of Elba is desirable. Elba has a very delightful climate, and for that reason, chiefly, it was selected by the allies in 1814 as the residence of Napoleon le Grand, for whom the Czar and the Austrian Emperor had some admiration. The little Corporal only stayed about ten months, but in that time he was the busiest monarch in Europe, albeit his kingdom was so small. Elba belonged to France from 1797 to 1814. In the latter year it was made independent and given to Napoleon. Afterwards it went to the Grand Duchy of Tuscany, and since the consolidation of Italy it is ruled over by Victor Emanuel. In 1858 the French Emperor helped the then King of Sardinia to a very large slice of southern and central Italy, and to the title of the King of Italy, for which service he was in part paid by the cession of Savoy and Nice to France. Now comes the then overshadowing Cæsar of the Tuileries, and begs of his former protege permission to make his home for a brief time among the hills of Elba. But first of all he must get permission from the son of that former Prussian King whose army was cut to pieces at Jena and Auerstadt, sixty five years ago, and whose kingdom was cut up by the uncle of this Emperor and divided between his Marshals and his brother. Time's reverses are wonderful, but no family has experienced such sudden and astounding vicissitudes of fortune as these Bonapartes. Starving sub-lieutenant, First Consul, Emperor, petty prince, exile in hopeless captivity at St. Helena, vagabond prince, special constable in London, protege of Lady Blessington, Deputy of reputed stupidity, President of the French Republic, author of a massacre which made him Emperor for nineteen years, hero of three great wars which turned all Europe topsy turvy, and at last a prisoner and exile begging permission to end his days on a little island of pleasant climate in the Mediterranean.

THE DUKE OF AOSTA AND THE SPANISH THRONE.—Spain it seems is determined to have a king. It is now officially announced that the vacant throne has been offered to and accepted by Prince Amedeus Ferdinand Marie, Duke of Aosta, the second son of King Victor Emanuel. This Prince was born May 30, 1845, and is now consequently in his twenty sixth year. The House of Savoy, like the House of Hohenzollern, is now in favor. A united Italy for himself, and Spain for his son, why should not Victor Emanuel be proud. Will it work is a question which many will ask. If Spain must have a King we know no good reason why it should not work. A father in Italy and a son in Spain, or one brother on the Spanish throne and another brother on the Italian throne, why should not the two peninsulas shake hands and be friends. If this arrangement can be carried out it will pave the way for the final fusion of the Latin races. But Napoleon, where is he? Alas, poor Yorick!—New York Herald.

The heathen Chinee is to be employed at dock labor in Oswego by several shipping houses next season. Quadruped wharf rats in anticipation of the wrath to come are emigrating from that region in swarms.

A Democratic Picture

[illegible] have not been wanting materials for the Republicans to use with effect in exposing the shameless record of the late Legislature The total want of honesty which characterized the action of a majority of that body, their wanton outrages on the rights of the minority their gross attacks on popular rights as exhibited in the passage of the police act for this city and the attempt to disfranchise men who work on railways, the notorious jobbery of the session culminating in the seizure by the "ring" who got control of the Legislature of a large part of the fund which the Constitution ordains shall belong forever to the common schools all these things and more of the same sort have given opportunity for Republicans to justly denounce the Legislature whose session has recently ended as the most corrupt body that ever assembled in Oregon Who, however, would have supposed that the leading Democratic organ, even the Herald of this city a paper which has never heretofore scrupled at anything that its party has done, would make confessions against this Legislature which virtually confirm all that Republicans have ever charged against it? Yet such is the truth These confessions come out through comparisons made by the Herald of the Oregon Legislature with that of California It quotes from Democratic papers of California to show that the last Legislature of that State (which was three-fourths Democratic in both branches) was composed of "fools or rascals" that "many of the members have seen and felt the crushing displeasure of their constituents, and feel that their course in that body has forever cursed their memory;" that the people of California pray that this body "may never meet again," and that if it should again assemble "the few honorable Democratic members could not save the party from utter disgrace" "Convene the old Legislature again," says the California Democratic organ, whose utterances the Herald copies for the purpose of pointing a moral for the people of Oregon, "and good bye to Democracy in California, and good bye to the property rights of the masses in the State for the next generation"

The Herald gives further publicity to these charges by Democratic organs against the Democratic Legislature of California, for the purpose of referring to the Democratic Legislature of Oregon It says "It would seem from these extracts that the California Democratic Legislature disappointed the Democracy of that State as much as did our Legislature, in one respect, the Democracy of Oregon, and that the extracts from the California papers 'can be read with profit by the Democracy of Oregon, who are at perfect liberty to make their own application' " Thus we see that the principal organ of the Oregon Democracy has re-published these most disparaging remarks about the California Legislature, for the purpose of making an admission that the Oregon Legislature was composed of like material; that a majority of its members were "fools and rascals," and that "their course in that body has forever cursed their memory" This rather exceeds any picture of the late Legislature which has yet been presented by Republicans yet as it is drawn by the "official organ of the party," we suppose it must be accepted as truthful and just Relative Growth of Cities and Country.

The great growth of our large cities in population, as compared with the increase in the country districts, to which we referred in an article a few days ago, will be better comprehended by an inspection of the following table, which furnishes a statement of the population of fourteen cities of the United States in the year 1860 and the year 1870.

Cities	1870	1860
New York	930 855	814,267
Philadelphia	657,178	568 034
Brooklyn	456 907	266,665
St Louis	312,973	161,780
Chicago	297,718	109 263
Baltimore	250 000	212 419
Boston	253,323	177 581
Cincinnati	215,900	165 044
New Orleans	184,658	168,823
San Francisco	150 361	56 805
Buffalo	114 247	81 181
Washington	109,358	61 118
Newark	105,542	2,170
Louisville	100 020	68 740

In 1860 the aggregate population of these fourteen cities was 2,974,768 This year it is 4,168,160. The gain has been over 40 per cent Taking all the States and Territories together, the gain in ten years will not exceed and may fall slightly below 30 per cent a fact which shows that the rural districts have increased their population but little more than half as rapidly as the larger cities These statistics confirm a very important fact They show, as we pointed out in a former article, that the draft of the population is from the country's fields to the cities, or, as an able thinker and writer has expressed it, "from the cradle into the graves of the human race.

The New York Times well says that no better commentary on the hollowness of Democratic pretensions in regard to the introduction of taxes can be desired than that which is supplied by the record of votes during the last session of Congress The reforms by which Republicans reduced taxes to an amount little less than $80,000 000, were carried not only without democratic help, but in spite of Democratic opposition Upon this point the list of votes is conclusive Thus, in the House but five democrats voted for the bill at its final stage, while forty seven Democrats voted against the bill and against affording relief to tax payers which it provided In the Senate, two Democrats voted for and five against the bill as it passed that body When a Democratic orator talks loudly about taxation, then let these facts be used to silence him They prove that for the reduction of fiscal burdens the people owe no thanks to the Democrats For that work the Republican party alone is entitled to credit

The school fund plunderers, we understand, are making every exertion to get out their bonds before Congress assembles They are afraid that body will put a quietus upon their scheme of robbery by declaring that the 500 000 acres of land was given to the State for common schools whence it will follow that the Legislature cannot dispose of the land for other purposes Therefore they are in a hurry to issue the bonds and raise the money on them so as to make the most they can But purchasers to whom these bonds are offered would do well to beware of them There is a fine chance in them for a losing investment

The union of British Columbia with the Dominion of Canada is to be formally effected on Dominion Day the 1st of July next From that time the Confederation of British North American Provinces will embrace the entire territory lying north of the United States between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans There is room enough for a great and powerful nation and [illegible] A railway from Ottawa to the Pacific coast is counted on within ten years but that is rather to [illegible] a stretch of the imagination.

The Situation in New York

To-day (Tuesday) elections are to take place in many States including New York One Pacific State Nevada is also among the number The list of members of the next Congress will be nearly completed by the States voting to-day as there will remain only three or four of the smaller States to hold elections for Congressmen Most of the interest in the present contest centers in New York An effort is making there to break up the colossal frauds by which Tammany has triumphed heretofore and it appears that no preparation is lacking to enforce the laws in favor of an honest election There is a chance for a disturbance indeed there is some probability of a fight Tammany is unwilling to give up the iniquitous system from which its greatest profits have been derived and many set on the rabble to acts of violence

The people of the whole country are waiting to hear the result in New York City hoping that the law will be rigorously enforced If it is not enforced to an extent that will materially cut down the fraudulent Democratic vote in many districts, the failure will be owing to the inefficiency of those charged with the execution of the law If any resistance shall be made to the law we hope to hear of the most thorough measures—powder and ball if necessary—to restore and preserve order and give the "repeaters" a lesson

The Liberal Progress of Germany

From the New York Times

We have already alluded to the efforts being made in Prussia, to unite the Liberals from both North and South Germany in the coming Federal Parliament This is particularly desired by the Northern Party, as the Liberals of the South are notoriously the more radical and pronounced in their political principles Every mail shows the increasing desire of the Bavarian, Baden and Wertemburg populations to be members of the same Confederation with North Germany There is among many faithful students of foreign politics in this country, a singular misapprehension as to what the new Government in North Germany really is, and what prodigious reforms have taken place in Prussia during the last four years

The truth is that all the recent aggressions of Prussia such as the occupation of the Duchies and the final victory over Austria in the struggle for supremacy in Germany, have been triumphs of Germanism instead of Prussianism The fate of Prussia like that of Piedmont in Italy, is to be merged in united Germany though undoubtedly pressing its own features upon the whole Confederacy In the North German Parliament Prussia has by no means assumed a position proportioned to her population or her ambition The upper house of this body, corresponding to our Senate, which represents the different Governments directly only allows the 25,000,000 of Prussians 17 votes. The lower house is elected on as popular a suffrage as our own House of Representatives Those who have been accustomed to talk of Prussian tyranny will be surprised to learn that the new constitution in many of its aspects, has been modeled on the French Constitutions of the first Revolution It is remarkable as showing the increasingly practical tendency of the Prussian mind that this alone of all similar instruments has nothing to say about the abstract rights of man but does contain a stringent provision for cheap and regular railroad fares through the whole Confederacy

The Parliament has full privileges and rights It alone votes the supplies every year, it cannot be adjourned for more than thirty days, nor dissolved without new elections taking place in three months Every three years it must be entirely renewed It possesses entire freedom of action the unlimited right of address to the Crown, of initiation and amendment in the matter of laws Above all it has a responsible minister—the Federal Chancellor The executive power is a strong one, but no more so than our own It is conferred entirely on the King of Prussia He declares war, makes peace signs treaties assembles the Parliament publishes the Federal laws and watches over their execution nominates his Minister, commands the army and fleet appoints the chief officers and the principal civil employes But he is no more absolute than President Grant He cannot enter a private citizen's house without a warrant, or stop a revolutionary newspaper, or break up a public meeting, or interfere with a secret association or publish an abusive editor or imprison a scurrilous Democrat or violate any personal rights of the poorest German any more than can our President Every Prussian is equal before the law there are no privileged persons personal liberty is guaranteed The house and the private letter are inviolable No one can be punished or arrested except by legal process All creeds and associations are free Science and education are untrammeled

As we said before the Parliament possesses the great instrument of free government a hold over the purse strings It will be remembered that the recent German Parliament refused to confirm an interference of the King in taking possession of certain public income for the payment of war expenses They were adjourned five times and each time met again with a stronger liberal majority and refused their sanction A compromise was at length brought about by Count Bismarck's presenting a bill of indemnity for the King, which was passed The occurrence shows however the true constitutional spirit of the governing body of North Germany We may be sure that a great people which has control thus far of its liberties will never give them up for personal government again Prussia and North Germany are now on a solid basis of constitutional liberty With South Germany united with them they will be more even more liberal They have power to change the Constitution and not improbably will reform the construction of the Senate which represents too much the Governments of Germany and not enough the people Even if King William became Emperor he would be only an hereditary President, and Germany would still march on steadily toward the most rational and solid liberty

TUESDAY MORNING NOVEMBER 8 1870

CITY.

Brief Mention.—Mr [illegible] A Smith late [illegible] Oregon City [illegible] editor with [illegible] M C Best of the [illegible]

[illegible] certain [illegible] in the Puget Sound [illegible]

There is danger [illegible] at the corner of First and Stark streets [illegible]

The bark [illegible] was towed down to Spring [illegible] yesterday where she is to complete her cargo

The bark [illegible] was hauled over to East Portland yesterday morning to the steamship dock

The Congregational Church spire is being constructed inside the building and will be hoisted into place in a few days

Judge Greene of the Washington Territory Supreme Court bench opened the November term of the District Court at Vancouver yesterday

The steamer [illegible] brought over yesterday a considerable supply of dead ducks and other game.

A number of people had their shrubbery trimmed yesterday without charge Ordinance defying cows did it

The propeller Geo S Wright has not yet arrived from Sitka though overdue

Yesterday was a September day sandwiched into November bright skies balmy zephyrs and all that sort of thing

[illegible] Particular.—Uncle Sam is going to have the census business figured down to a [illegible] the reason why The report sent [illegible] and the census taker [illegible] Multnomah [illegible] with every requirement [illegible] in the case of six persons [illegible] he failed to put down opposite [illegible] names and under the head of birth place, the [illegible] which stand for ditto [illegible] those six names [illegible] to have [illegible] a fearfully formal and formidable [illegible] sent back The government wants to know where on earth those six people were born This [illegible] as the case we read the other day in which a census taker reported a couple of twins putting down opposite the name of the first one New York as the birth place The Census Bureau sent the report back and wanted to know where the other twin was born Evidently Uncle Sam don't intend to stand any tweedle dum and tweedle dee nonsense in this census business We are curious to know, though, supposing that a careless and unscrupulous fly should get on a census sheet, and upon inspection such sheet should be found to contain one dot too many what the Census Bureau would do with it.

Agricultural.—The Willamette Farmer says the dry weather the present fall must prevent the sowing of the usual quantity of land with wheat

The same paper expresses the opinion that the red soils of this valley would produce peanuts and that many dollars could be made out of the crop which now are paid to California

A late report from the Agricultural Bureau states the wheat crop of the Atlantic and Mississippi States to be this year fourteen per cent. less than the average The Oregon yield the past season was greater than ever before and of the usual superior quality Oregon's wheat crop is always a sure thing

From the 1st of January to the 1st of November there were shipped from this port to San Francisco flour quarter sacks, 474,590, wheat, sacks, 99 694, oats sacks, 15,412, salmon, barrels, 1,181 half barrels, 3,189, cases, 29,586, packages, 158, bacon, packages, 4,021, beef, barrels, [illegible] butter, packages 1 841, hams, packages, [illegible] lard packages 1,236, pork, barrels, 2,345, dried apples packages, 3,763

Series of Temperance Lectures.—Mr. C [illegible] Grand Worthy Chief Templar for the State, and Mr M D Merrick, State Lecturer for the Order of Good Templars, have appointments to lecture at the following times and places: Ames' Chapel, to morrow evening, Union Schoolhouse, Thursday evening, the 10th inst.; Centerville, Friday evening, the 11th, Hillsboro, Saturday, the 12th at 10 A M, when a county lodge for Washington county will be organized, Lone Star, Clackamas county, Monday evening, the 14th, [illegible] Tuesday evening, the 15th, Mount [illegible] Wednesday evening, the 16th, Mount Pleasant, Thursday evening, the 17th; Oregon City, Saturday 10 A M the 19th, when a county lodge for Clackamas county will be organized The same speakers will subsequently speak before all the lodges of Multnomah county.

Shoo Fly!—Yesterday we saw one of Gov. Grover's metropolitan policemen acting as escort, guide and guardian of a convivial chap who had [illegible] oftener than he could carry, and who in consequence was himself being [illegible] off (on a dray) to the city's boarding and lodging apartments The convivial chap, though he had no well founded objection to taking a free ride, seemed to object either to the company he was in, or to the style of vehicle he was on, and insisted that he would "jis zoon walk's ride," and to prove it kept his foot going as if walking an imaginary inverted pavement overhead. The convivial chap lying prone on his back, with legs and arms gyrating in the air looked for all the world like a demoralized "shoo-fly" or "blue bottle in the toils of a spider

Oro Fino Theater.—There was a good house at last night to see the last performance of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and "Caste," Both these plays were given in excellent style. Little May [illegible] a mere child of six or seven summers plays Eva in Uncle Tom's Cabin, with a talent so very much older than herself as to take the audience captive from her first appearance, and the success of the piece is largely due to her She is really a sweet little prodigy and no one ought to miss the opportunity to see her To night by special request the popular drama of "Camille" will be presented Camille is one of Mrs Bates' great characters and those who go out to-night may be assured in advance of a splendid evening's entertainment.

Several Street Crossings Found.—Yesterday we observed several courageous delvers with spade and hoe engaged in prospecting for street crossings out beyond Fourth Toward evening a few of the crossings had been found, and strong hopes were entertained that they could be rescued without going clear through to China. In other cases the "surface indications" are wholly wanting and speculation as to the whereabouts of the missing planks seems as idle as dreaming of the philosopher's stone We suggest to the venerable city dads that they order new ones laid down with surface anchor attachments

Runaway.—Mr A H Zabriskie's team created [illegible] in the upper end of Front street yesterday morning by performing an old fashioned runaway At Thompson's boarding house, just [illegible] they ran into an old wagon [illegible] and as this little accident [illegible] the pair of them [illegible] and stopped Inventory [illegible] harness a badly demoralized old wagon by the [illegible] of hay left on the street, a small crowd of lookers on with nothing else to do and this item

An Economical Customer.—One of the men sent to jail yesterday by the Police Judge for non payment of a fine and costs, was found after putting him into the jail to have on his person about $70 He preferred to serve out his fine in jail, rather than part with his lucre. Why not? Board at the Metropolitan jail is cheaper (if not so good) than at the Metropolitan hotel and a penny saved is better than two earned It is clear the chap had been studying Poor Richard to some purpose

Navigation Re-opened to Albany.—Mr McCully had a telegram from Salem yesterday which said that the river had risen at that place [illegible] feet from the low fall stage The boats started from the basin yesterday morning for Albany and the down boats brought nearly double the late usual freights The free navigation of the river to all the usual up river points will probably not be again interrupted

Gone on a Hornet Foray.—The San Francisco dispatches announce the arrival at that city of the Rev H H Spaulding of Oregon [illegible] to Washington where he is going to knock Congress or some other men [illegible] a cocked hat for the utterance of severe charges against Dr Whitman

Drill and Soiree.—On Friday evening the 11th inst the Washington Guard will have at their armory an exhibition drill and soiree. Tickets may be procured of the company The drill will be worth seeing and the social exercises to follow will be sure to be pleasant

Slightly Rising.—The Willamette has been extremely low throughout the fall but the last rains have swelled the river slightly Sunday night the stage of water above the Falls was about a foot higher than before the rains

A JEREMY DIDDLER AMONG THE FARMERS.—We are informed that a sharper from the city has been playing a rather serious joke on some of the farmers in Washington county On Thursday or Friday last a gentleman who owns a farm in that county, and who wishes to dispose of the same was returning home from the city where he had placed the land in the hands of a real estate agent for sale On the way out he was accosted by a pedestrian who asked him if he knew of any farms for sale He replied that his own was for sale—some 800 acres The stranger intimated that he would be glad to get that and as much more as he could obtain reasonably The farmer invited him to "jump into the wagon" and take a look at the country On the road he stated that he and his sister had fallen heir to an immense estate in England the principal of which could not be drawn but that a small portion of the interest which had accumulated (amounting to $550 000) was on deposit in the Bank of British Columbia in this city This insignificant sum he proposed to invest in real estate in this country He readily agreed to take the farmer's place at $10 000 and promised to pay the money at the bank on Monday The next morning the farmer saddled his horse, rode round the neighborhood and invited his friends to call at his house and "interview" the great land speculator The result of the meeting was that the whole lot sold their farms at good round figures their own prices, receiving in payment therefor the sharper's I O U of which like Mr Wilkins Micawber he was very plethoric They all came to the city yesterday to cash their drafts the "land grabber" accompanying them The wagon they were in stopped in front of the office of the real estate agent aforementioned the farmer wishing to withdraw his land from sale While the others went in to inform the agent that they had disposed of their farms the capitalist ... eloped and has not since been seen or heard of The farmers begin to have a suspicion that they and not their lands have been sold

PERSONAL.—We learn that Mr Jacobs, the proprietor for several years past of the St George Hotel in Victoria V I has closed out business there, and has taken up his residence in our city We also learn that it is the intention of Mr Jacobs to go into the Hotel business here We are glad of it, as no man knows better how to conduct a first class hotel than does Mr Jacobs The St George while under his superintendence acquired a reputation as a first class hotel second to none on this coast In fact it had become an almost universal remark of visitors to Victoria that the St George in matter of cleanliness arrangement, table etc was surpassed by none on this coast

Narrow Gauge Railways

From the San Francisco Bulletin Press

This subject seems gradually to be attracting to our coast the attention which it deserves and is being constantly handled in the papers here and there We have already spoken at length upon it but have by no means said all which ought to be uttered We believe that the system is ... much more ... and with much ... beneficial results than is commonly thought We ... only to the ... that a system of narrow gauge railroads could ... the Western States and Territories with immense ...

Mr Robert F Fairlie ... paper at the last meeting of the British Association ... showed how much ... the cost is affected by the gauge and how it would be possible to extend roads to thinly peopled districts It has been assumed that by a narrow gauge than 4 feet 8½ inches and a half would be limited in their carrying capacity and speed ... If it is necessary to run trains at the rate of fifty or sixty miles an hour the argument so far is strongly for the broader gauge but with the bogie engines 35 to 40 miles an hour can be obtained on three foot gauge ... a high speed as ... in a new country Mr Fairlie asserts that ... heavy merchandise trains ... at the same speed with such engines and gauge as are now taken on the broad gauge in England and ... lighter rails will be fairly worn out instead of crushed and ground out and this will apply equally well here

The proportion of non paying to paying weight in passenger trains in England is as much as 20 to 1 ... trains is 7 to 1 On the Festiniog Railway with its gauge of 1 ft 11½ in ... weighing 15 cwt ... carry ... tons at a ... miles an hour This ... carry as much as six times their own weight while on ordinary roads the cars carry only twice their own weight. This shows how the amount of dead weight is dependent on the gauge And this denotes also the difference in the wear and tear of the rails

Mr Fairlie attempts to prove by figures (and we have nowhere seen his attempt called a failure) that if the 3 ft gauge should be substituted for the broader one of the London and Northwestern Railroad (selected as an example on account of its excellent management) the present goods traffic could be hauled at one-half the present cost with half the present motive power and half the tonnage He shows that with a traffic requiring the same number and weight of trains now worked the 3 ft gauge would carry without increasing the cost of haulage by a penny a paying load of 25 million of tons as against the 10 million now carried He proceeds further to apply the case to the East Indian Railway in India which has a gauge of 5 ft 6 in He shows that the proportion here is ... tons of dead to 1 ton of paying load and asserts that this proportion on a 3 ft gauge would be only 1½ to 1 instead of ... to 1 Let us imagine he says the saving which this change would effect in fuel alone ... asserting that less than one-fourth of the tonnage now hauled would afford precisely the same accommodation to the traffic which now exists, and would produce the same paying results

We hear from all parts of our great West demands for railroads But with the broad gauge system either immense subsidies must be granted, whereat many grumble or large districts must be left out in the cold But if the first cost of building the railways can be reduced one-half and if the cost of maintaining these roads can be cut down in the same proportion by the introduction of a system which would afford the same accommodations for traffic why should we delay to take steps in the matter? The Government of Russia anxious to extend the railroad facilities of that country sent a number of the most scientific men of the Empire to Wales to investigate the matter of the narrow gauge The result is that a railway is to be built on the new system which has also been adopted for some of the old lines A narrow gauge has also been adopted in other countries It is time that we go ahead people of the Pacific slope should take up the matter And we are happy to say that from several inquiries and communications sent us we have some reason to believe there is a good prospect of the subject's getting a thorough ventilation on our coast

We give in this connection an illustration of one of the engines employed on the now famous Festiniog Railway in Wales (from the American Artizan) which will be noticed as being a little giant of peculiar construction with piston and cylinder arranged between the wheels Another engine on this road called the Little Wonder weighs but five tons has hauled a load of 101 tons made up of a train of a quarter of a mile in length so long that there were parts of the road on which it ran on no fewer than five reverse curves—and has attained frequently a speed of thirty five miles an hour

We can perhaps do no better than to conclude our article with ... of Mr Fairlie's paragraphs ... that gentleman says In moderately temperate climates gauges of 2 ft 6 in will be found ample for any traffic in any part of the world and will sustain a speed of 30 miles an hour while 3 ft is sufficient for either very hot or very cold climates and will sustain a speed of 40 miles an hour Railways can be made cheaply and at the same time to be thoroughly efficient and those who assert the contrary are ... to the progress of civilization There is no country too poor to have railways sufficient for its requirements and railways furnish the cheapest possible mode of transport when they are not borne down by the results of incompetence and extravagance which we see so often associated together ... it is the duty of every man ... country to assist those of the new by pointing out how they may benefit by our dear bought experience and may avoid the pitfalls into which only too many of our railway shareholders have fallen

A Mutual Separation.

The following somewhat remarkable narrative, which we find in the San Francisco Mirror, is related by a Western lady. She is herself a character. She has crossed the plains twice, first in 1849, during which her husband perished, and is the first American lady who returned to the East by the Isthmus of Panama. She is a genuine heroine—a fine specimen of stout-hearted Western womanhood—and her adventures in the wilds of the unoccupied West have been numerous and exciting.

Well, while the train of which this lady was a member was encamped at a point on the Humboldt, where the Lassen trail intersects the Carson track of travel, she visited the tent of a family consisting of an elderly couple and one child—a daughter of 15 or 16. The old lady was sitting on a pile of blankets, under the canvas, encouraging a most determined attack of the "sulks," while the masculine head of affairs had planted himself on his wooden tongue, and was sucking his pipe as though he expected to remain there forever. A single glance developed the difficulty in that little train of one wagon and three persons, and that it had attained a point of quiet desperation beyond the reach of peaceful adjustment. Three days before they had pitched their tent at the forks of the road, and as they could not agree upon the route by which to enter California, there they had remained. The husband had expressed a preference for the Carson road—the wife for the Lassen—and neither would yield. The wife declared she would remain all winter; the husband said he would be pleased to prolong the sojourn through the summer following.

On the morning of the fourth day the wife broke a sullen silence of thirty-six hours by proposing a division of the property, which consisted of two yoke of oxen, one wagon, camp furniture, a small quantity of provisions, and twelve dollars in silver. The proposal was accepted, and forthwith the "plunder" was divided, leaving the wagon to the old man, and the daughter to the mother. The latter exchanged with a neighboring train the cattle belonging to her for a pony and a pack-saddle, and piling her daughter and her portion of the divided spoils upon the animal, she resolutely started across the desert by the Lassen trail, while the old man silently yoked his cattle and took the other route. Singular as the case may seem, it is nevertheless true. It is among the many occurrences of life stranger than fiction. Of course, both parties reached California in safety. We say "of course," for it is scarcely possible that any obstacle, death included, could have interfered with stubbornness so sublime. Arriving at Sacramento with her daughter, the old lady readily found employment—for women were less plentiful than now—and subsequently opened a boarding house, and in a few years amassed a handsome fortune. Two years ago she went to San Francisco, and the daughter, whose education had not been neglected, was married to one of the most substantial citizens.

And what has become of the old man? The wife had not seen or heard of him since they parted on the Humboldt. They had lived happily together as man and wife for years, and she sometimes reproached herself for the wilfulness that separated them after so long a pilgrimage together through this rough life. But he was not dead. We cannot trace his course in California, however. All that we know of him is, that fortune had not smiled upon him, and that for years he had toiled without hope. Finally, feeling scarce [illegible] wield the pick and shovel, he visited San Francisco in the hope of obtaining employment better adapted to his wasted [illegible]. [illegible] months he remained idle after arriving here, and then, for want of occupation, became a humble retailer of peanuts and apples, with his little traffic upon his arm. This was six months ago. A few weeks since, in passing the open door of a cottage in the southern part of the city, he observed a lady [illegible] hall, and stopped to offer his merchandise. As he stopped upon the threshold the lady approached and the old man raised his eyes and dropped the basket—and no wonder, either, for she was his wife, his "old woman." She recognized him, and throwing up her arms in amazement, exclaimed:

"Great God! John, is that you?"

"All that is left of me," replied the old man.

With extended arms they approached. Suddenly the old lady's countenance changed, and she stepped back.

"John," said she, with a look which might have been construed into earnestness, "how did you find the Carson road?"

"Miserable, Suky, miserable," replied the old man. "Full of sand and alkali."

"Then I was right, John," she continued, triumphantly.

"You were, Suky."

"That's enough," said she, throwing her arms around the old man's neck, "that's enough, John;" and the old couple, strangely sundered, were again united. Both are living with their daughter on Second street.

Pickings from Punchinello.

AN ACQUAINTANCE.—Tom—"I say, Jack, what a beautiful complexion Miss Smith has. Do you know her?" Jack—"No, but I know a girl who buys her complexion at the same store at which Miss Smith buys hers."

ASPIRATION.—Of all sorts of people in the world, the Cockney has the queerest notions about vegetable nature. Show him the first letter of the alphabet, for instance, and he pronounces it "hay."

APPARENTLY ANOMALOUS.—Should the Prussians ever succeed in entering Paris, it is hardly possible that they can be well received by the citizens, whether they did find Favre there or not.

RIGHT TO THE SPOT.—Additional spots on the disc of the sun are reported. An ingenious writer, who candidly states that he is not an astronomer, accounts for them by suggesting that they are caused by stray shots from the Prussian sharpshooters who tried to bring down Gambetta's balloon.

A GUN FOR THE VATICAN.—Why is Victor Emmanuel like a tomahawk? Because he is now said to be "a tool in the hands of the Reds."

"FALL" WEATHER.—The subject of bringing down rain by firing of artillery has again been revived, owing to the long droughts that have lately prevailed. What gives a color of feasibility to it at present, is the fact that the reign of Louis Napoleon has lately been brought down by Prussian guns.

VORACIOUS VEGETATION. It appears that our ever active Park Commissioners are making vigorous efforts to establish a Zoological Garden in Central Park. It has been generally supposed that gardens were either horticultural or agricultural; but if the Commissioners can get up anything of the kind which shall be zoological, Mr. Punchinello has not the least objection in the world. He supposes that in such a garden the principal plants will be Tiger-lilies, Cock's-combs, Larkspurs, Ragged Robins, Coltsfoots, Horse Chestnuts, Gooseberries, Dandelions, Foxgloves, and Dogwood. If full crops are desired, a good many pigeons and chickens should be kept on the grounds, and that portion of the garden devoted to leg-uminous products will probably be occupied by storks and giraffes.

DEAD BEATS.—Muffled drums.

Massachusetts has 308 newspapers, and Illinois has 435, while the six New England States have altogether 449—but fourteen more than the State of Illinois.

LAND DEPARTMENT
OREGON & CALIFORNIA RAILROAD COMPANY.

SALEM, OREGON, October 22 1870.

THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT IS MADE FOR information of all concerned.

First—Congress has granted to the Company all alternate sections of the public lands designated by odd-numbers within a distance of thirty miles on each side of the railroad, excepting lands to which a pre-emption or homestead claim had attached prior to the withdrawal by Government of the lands coterminous with the first division of located line from East Portland to Jefferson, at 12 M. February 16, 1870. The second division of located line from Jefferson to a point six miles south of Roseburg, May, 1870, and from the last named point to the California line, 1870.

Second—Persons who have valid pre-emption or homestead claims to any tract on an odd numbered section can purchase the same from the Railroad Company at the Government price of $1 25 per acre in greenbacks, and upon very favorable terms, if they so desire, by filing an abandonment of their claim in the U. S. Land Office, blanks for which will be furnished by the Land Agent of the Company. Such purchase from the Company has these advantages over a purchase from the Government. The party can leave the land if necessary; he can sell the land or mortgage it; he is saved the payment of lawyers' or agents' fees, and expenses of witnesses to go to the Land Office to "prove up" his claim; he can get his title perfect in less time, and he can buy on credit at a low rate of interest.

Third—No sales will be made by the Company until the land is listed over to it by the United States Land Commissioner and Secretary of the Interior.

Purchasers are thus assured that the title they obtain is perfect.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhoea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies. see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of affecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of his complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders, who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary. Some of the self-styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places, are tradesmen, and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory, and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find their former occupations in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863. The only way to avoid imposition is to make enquiry—it will cost you nothing, and may save you many regrets; for, as advertising physicians, in eight cases out of ten, are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr. Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patient's letters, etc. Dr. Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 623 Kearney street, corner Commercial, (Private Entrance on Commercial) San Francisco. Post Office Box 252.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 252 ON THE LETTER.

Consultations FREE.

☞ Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian

THE RIVERSIDE HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION

EAST PORTLAND, OREGON.

IS NOW PREPARED TO RECEIVE [illegible] to their Stock.

Application for [illegible] before the books were opened, [illegible] Shares have been taken.

The following extracts from the Ore[illegible] will convey a good idea of the plan and [illegible] the Association, the location of the land, etc.

RIVERSIDE HOMESTEAD ASSOCIATION.

This association of whose organization [illegible] an account a few days since, is now ready [illegible] pose of shares. As it is with one [illegible] Portland Homestead Association,) the [illegible] ganization of that kind in this city, it may be well enough to state what are its purposes, and the manner in which it is proposed to conduct its operations. The purposes of [illegible] Associations are not at all speculative in [illegible] dinary sense of the word. They [illegible] for the profits of their invest[illegible] ral advance in the value of [illegible] quent upon the [illegible] —shareholders [illegible] surrounding lands by [illegible] population and [illegible] still near, the city. The [illegible] Association has a [illegible] twenty acres of land, [illegible] Brooklyn on the east side of [illegible] est boundary line being [illegible] ferry landing at East Portland. [illegible] in one strip along the [illegible] in length, and another strip along the California railroad, [illegible] strips being connected [illegible] rows of blocks (with a street [illegible] whole forming a figure [illegible] It is divided into 74 blocks, [illegible] streets running at right [illegible] al lots, along the river front [illegible] ber 600, worth $60 per [illegible] a share thus [illegible] vided interest in the [illegible] tional shares are to be [illegible] for the benefit of the [illegible] coming in for the pr[illegible] number of shares held. [illegible] taken and [illegible] mine to do it, the [illegible] will be put up at [illegible] bidder, the pro[illegible] the original price of [illegible] equally among the [illegible] Thus, if a person wants [illegible] and is willing to pay [illegible] or less as the case may [illegible] the lot or block and [illegible] premium being di[illegible] of shareholders. It will be [illegible] everything is co-operative [illegible] tual. No man can [illegible] out also [illegible] shareholder. There is [illegible] the property, by [illegible] far below the [illegible] liable to happen [illegible] tract of land must [illegible] but considering the [illegible] vance on real [illegible] hood, and at East Portland [illegible] last year or two, [illegible] values to go back.

In the Riverside [illegible] tions seem to have been [illegible] monopolies of shares. [illegible] buy more than the [illegible] three blocks, or twenty-four lots [illegible] terminating the operations of the [illegible] restricted in the [illegible] shares may pay [illegible] exempt them from all [illegible] pay $15 quarterly with [illegible] share, payable with the [illegible] liable in this latter case to [illegible] other) [illegible] payment of the [illegible] as above, the holder is [illegible] and his proportion of [illegible] all money. No officer of the [illegible] any pay for services. [illegible] gets $25 per month; and [illegible] expenses must be light. [illegible]

That part of the tract lying along a high plateau, nearly level, about [illegible] above the water. There is [illegible] row of blocks but [illegible] Portland and the river [illegible] stream. That part of the tract [illegible] railroad is, every foot of it, [illegible] soil and adapted to gardening [illegible] tiful little stream of pure water [illegible] almost the entire length of the [illegible] affording the means of irrigation [illegible] ficient to supply pure water to [illegible] whole tract. There is not a [illegible] lot in the entire tract. [illegible] tages, it would seem impossible [illegible] be any chance of loss to [illegible] year each shareholder [illegible] perfect title to as many lots [illegible] represent, or he may con[illegible] vided, with the [illegible] tion may elect.—Oregonian [illegible]

THE RIVERSIDE H[illegible]

We have been led to make these remarks [illegible] fact that the subject of [illegible] skirts of this city and East Portland [illegible] discussed here among all [illegible] "Riverside," just south of East [illegible] been established. The site [illegible] ing a little over a mile south of the ferry landing [illegible] shaped like the letter H, one side of which, [illegible] in length, borders on the river.

From this portion of the [illegible] but a trifle above the other prong of the H, [illegible] forty or fifty feet above the river, can be had [illegible] sive view of Portland, East Portland, the [illegible] the Willamette river for several miles. The land [illegible] fertile, and is partly covered with light fir timber, [illegible] tract of land just wide enough for two rows of blocks, with an avenue between them, connects the [illegible] of the H (which has already been [illegible] the east. This last tract of land is [illegible] valley, which is now under a high state of [illegible] Through its whole length runs a brook, [illegible] of which is clear as crystal. With a [illegible] Association proposes to have [illegible] pipes to every portion of the [illegible]
